

Thanksgiving is here, and this year's holiday is certainly one that is unique. In a normal year, we'd all gather with friends and family, we would eat, drink and be generally merry. We'd enjoy a packed bar and restaurant with an overabundance of good cheer in the air. This year, gathering in the usual way doesn't seem to be in the cards, and many of us may be struggling with changes and adaptations in our daily lives. Being merry and cheerful could be a tall order.

That is exactly why we wanted to take a moment to count our many blessings. Here at Pizza 150 we have so many things to be thankful for, and we wanted to share a few of those things with you.

- 1) For our family – our relatives, of course, with whom we work alongside to make Pizza 150 happen. With the strength and support of our family, everything is possible.
- 2) Our employees – their creativity, good cheer and hard work have helped to keep Pizza 150 strong, growing and adapting to every challenge. There is no better team anywhere!
- 3) For our patrons – your unbelievable support in this very difficult year has sustained us in so many ways. We have been overwhelmed by your generosity, patience and kindness. Seeing you is the reason we all look forward to coming to work!
- 4) For our business partners, who have helped us meet the demands this year - your advice, counsel and support have guided us through the tough moments and helped us improve our operations.
- 5) For our community. We cannot say this enough: there is no better place to be than right here. Our churches, schools and government institutions are filled with selfless people who want to make our world better, and it shows. Please know that your tireless efforts do not go unnoticed or unappreciated.
- 6) For all those on the front lines battling COVID-19 - thank you for taking care of us, and for working every day to keep us safe in the face of a daunting opponent. As hard as this year has been for us, we know that it has been harder for you.

This Thanksgiving we also remember those who came before us, who paved the way for us and endured hardships even greater than the ones we face today. We remember those who are not here to celebrate the day with us, whether it is the first Thanksgiving without them or the fiftieth. We miss you and carry you in our hearts always.

As you can see, we are very blessed.

There will always be challenges, great and small, along life's path. We think it's safe to say that 2020 has been the most challenging year many of us have faced and none of us know what lies ahead. But we are grateful and thankful beyond measure that we are still here, still ready to believe in the hope of a better day tomorrow.

Happy Thanksgiving!
